

Westlund Retires From Rescue Squad

Jim Fields Chosen As New Captain

Jim Fields was elected Captain of the Antioch Rescue Squad at a meeting Monday night, Jan. 3. Ernest Westlund, formerly captain, had earlier announced his intention of retiring from active membership on the squad.

Everett Oftedahl and Howard Shepard were elected as lieutenants; Tom Haley and Leonard Roblin were re-elected president and secretary respectively, and Robert Wilton was elected treasurer.

Two new probationary members were added to the squad, Lewis Simon of the Shoe Box and Bill Wilton of Wilton Electric.

The Rescue Squad is in the process of revising by-laws, some of which have become out-dated. The purchase of a new E & J unit was announced.

In years of service, Jim Fields is one of the oldest active members of the squad, having been on the squad about eight years. He lives at 621 Parkway in Antioch with his wife, Gail, and four children.

Jim is a native of Antioch and is employed at Quadriol, Inc., on Grass Lake Road. He served in the Air Force as a member of the Medical Corps.

The Captain of the Rescue Squad is in charge of equipment, personnel and, in fact, all matters relating to the squad. He sees to it that equipment is kept in order, delegating chores, and schedules the men on summer weekends, when the men take turns being on call.

Ernie Westlund has been a member of the Antioch Rescue Squad since 1952, and captain for about two years, since Herman Holbek's retirement.

His reasons for retiring are his age and his health. "After you reach 50, some of these calls are just more strenuous work than you can handle," Ernie says. "The doctor told me a while ago to get off the squad. It's not just for my own sake—I wouldn't want to be carrying somebody down the stairs and have a heart attack, or something like that."

"I'll still help out in an emergency, as long as I'm able," Ernie said. "I'll miss the squad, more than it will miss me. I've enjoyed all my years on the squad. There's a little bad, a little good, lots of grief, but it's worth it."

"I've enjoyed my association with the fellows on the squad. They're the finest bunch of fellows in town—or anywhere, for that matter."

Dr. Berke Keeps Records Available To Former Patients

Dr. A. N. Berke, recuperating in Florida from surgery, says he intends to resume his practice in Antioch when he is fully recovered. Dr. Berke sold the Medical Center, including his office, to Dr. E. Abderholden recently. Dr. Abderholden moved his practice to 543 Orchard St. Tuesday.

In the meantime, medical records and information needed by Dr. Berke's former patients are available at his home. Mrs. Jungkang, nurse in Dr. Berke's employ for eight years, is on hand Monday and Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons at 465 Orchard for information. Times and phone number are in an ad elsewhere in this issue.

L.V. Rescue Squad Fund Nears Goal

Residents of Lake Villa Township are trying to raise $12,000 to build a home to house the Rescue Squad Equipment. Since July of this year volunteer workers have raised $10,818 by going door to door asking for donations, (a paper brick was given for a $3.00 donation), by a street dance, a movie, memorial funds and other affairs.

The needed amount is expected to be raised at a dance to be held on January 29 by the Lake Villa Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the post home on Grand Avenue.

The motto of the Lake Villa Rescue Squad is "A life is priceless." One of the members said, "We'd rather be called out unnecessarily ten times than to see a life lost because someone hesitated to call us."

The Rescue Squad was organized in March 1956 for the Lake Villa Community Men's Club. A fund drive was organized, headed by Winsor Dalgaard, and assisted by Henry Ploss, Robert Bailey, Martin Lau, Harold Bestorp, Alvin Pegg, Robert McClellan and treasurer B. J. Hooper. By May of that year they had enough money to purchase a used panel truck from the Antioch Rescue Squad. The truck was then outfitted to meet the needs of the Lake Villa Township.

The West Milwaukee Community Assn. purchased a resuscitator-inhalator for the organization soon after they went into operation in May 1956. During the time the Rescue Squad was organized and the time they went into operation, the volunteers underwent a training program to acquaint them with first aid procedures. An advanced first aid course was presented by the Red Cross.

Charter members of the Rescue Squad were Everett Awe, Gene Barth, Anthony Coia, Ben Cribb, Jake Fish, Harold McCord, Donald Olschlager, Fred Popp, Sr., Wilford Schneider and John Schueler.

There are now fifteen members. They include Edward Abrahamson, Ave, Cribb, Donald Curtis, Coia, Fish, Herman Hess, John Killar, John Lynn, Fred Popp, Jr., Richard Nitz, William Thompson, John Vos and William Wolfe.

The Rescue Squad is now using a Plymouth station wagon and an International ambulance, both equipped with the latest equipment. A second resuscitator-inhalator was donated by N. H. Engle & Sons.

Village Board Considers Several Sewer Projects

Problems of extending Antioch's sewer and water system to service new construction in the village and improve the existing sewer system were the main topics dealt with at Tuesday night's meeting of the Village Board.

Dr. Charles Solar frequently converses with the mushrooms about the weather, but even he was surprised when he found this "jimmy", a mid-October variety, in his back yard last Monday. This is a first in weather forecasting—Doc points out that you never see photos of Mithon talking to perch in their natural habitat.

Out-Of-Season Mushroom Gives Weather Word

"Doc" Charles Solar, weather prophet extraordinaire, figured you'd never believe it so he recorded on film a mushroom he found growing in his back yard Monday, January 3.

The mushroom is a "jimmy" one that appears in mid-October normally. It's a crazy, mixed up year, weather-wise, and the perch have failed miserably in their weather forecasting via their spokesman, Mithon Kyrilitsis.

"Doc" doesn't hold out much hope for those looking for a spell of zero weather to produce thick ice. He looks for the present weather to pretty much prevail till January 27. Between Jan. 27 and 31, the first big blizzard, says Doc. And more of the fluffy, white stuff in February.

If the mushrooms change their minds about the weather, we'll let you know. Providing Doc's able to get out and talk to them—their presently suffering from a heavy touch of the prevailing respiratory disease, acquired, he says, while eating shrimp New Year's Eve. "I should have known enough to stay away from sea food," he says sadly, "but it tasted awfully good."

Antioch Police Issue 130 Tickets in Dec.

The police report for the month of December in Antioch shows 107 tickets issued for meter and no parking zone violations; 23 tickets issued for moving traffic violations; eleven accidents reported; eight reports of petty or grand larceny; one dog bite reported; 4 dogs impounded and 3 disposed of. There were seven fire calls in the district and 22 Rescue Squad calls.

Action on this project will depend on whether or not the people living in the subdivision are willing to pay the cost of the project and be annexed to the village.

Antioch Teens Join March Of Dimes

Antioch teenagers will help fight birth defects next Saturday when they go out to join in the March of Dimes.

The Teen March was organized through the student council of the Antioch High School. The teens will collect throughout the township.

Students will be in the various shopping areas from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. January 8. Saturday is the official Teens March for Dimes throughout the entire county.

In addition to organizing the township-wide collections, the student council showed a movie to students Thursday during their study hall periods, illustrating the hardships caused by birth defects and the works of the March of Dimes in preventing them. A collection was also taken up at the school to allow more students to contribute.

Antioch Business On Gain, According To Dun & Bradstreet

The number of businesses in Antioch increased by four last year, according to the Dun & Bradstreet business listings.

Antioch had 266 businesses listed in January 1965. As of January 1966, 270 businesses were listed.

Waukegan statistics show one less business as 1966 starts, from 877 to 876. Fox Lake has 6 less, from 136 to 130. Zion has seven fewer, from 201 to 194. Grayslake has 8 more, with 135 in '66 from 127 in '65. Lake Villa had a gain of 6 businesses, from 106 to 112.

The Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book lists all manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses in Lake County. During the past year, 2,066 changes were made in the listings of Lake County businesses, including names added, names deleted, and changes in the ratings of continuing businesses.

Four Fined After Fight At Rink

Four young men were found guilty of fighting at the Antioch Roller Rink in Circuit Court Tuesday, and fined.

Antioch police broke up the fight on Dec. 11 and arrested Pete Wagner, 18, of R. 3, Box 90, Antioch; Donald Wagner, of the same address; John LaMont, Jr., Lake Villa, and Larry Stephens, 808 Grand Ave., Waukegan.

Pete Wagner was fined $50 and costs; Donald Wagner, $75 and costs; LaMont, $25 and costs; and Stephens, $25 and costs.

Pete Wagner was also found guilty of public drunkenness on Dec. 18 and fined $20 and $5 costs.

Announce Driver License Action

The office of Secretary of State Paul Powell has announced the following action by the Drivers License Division of his office: the license of Raymond E. Haekler, R. 5, Box 360, Antioch, suspended for driving while intoxicated.

Village engineers Frank Angelotti and Roger Patzer also gave the board an estimate of the cost of installing a sewer line on Anita Ave. The board authorized the village engineers to prepare specifications for bids on installing the Anita Ave. line.

The third estimate considered by the board was an estimate of the cost of running sewer and water lines to service two churches to be built near the corner of Route 59 and Route 173. The Christian Science church will be built at the corner of Harden St. and Route 173, east of McCarmel cemetery; St. Stephen Lutheran Church is planning construction of a church near the corner of Routes 59 and 173.

After reviewing the estimate, Mayor Raymond Toft set the date for a special meeting of the board at 8 p.m. next Monday, with representatives of the two churches to be present.

Clerk Clarence Shultis informed the board that it had been a long-standing custom of the village board to waive the cost of permits for church construction, and asked permission of the board to waive the permit for the First Church of Christ, Scientist. The board approved the action.

Chester Golonka, representing the Antioch Grade School Band Parents, asked permission to hold a tag day for the band on Saturday, July 2. Permission was given.

Mayor Toft announced that Edgar Simonsen, hospitalized by a heart attack, was improving, but would not be able to return to work for some time. Simonsen, he said, had accumulated 340 hours of overtime and had 15 days sick leave coming. He asked the approval of the board to pay Simonsen as usual to the extent of his overtime and sick leave. The board approved the motion.

Toft announced that Jim Quadenfeld was leaving the employ of the village and had accumulated 356 hours of overtime. In view of the fact that he was leaving the village voluntarily, the board voted to pay him for two weeks vacation time, and accepted his resignation with regret.

The board also voted to pay Maynard Schneider for 45 hours of work at snow removal.

Todd Mapletorpe reported that well No. 3 was pumping sand, necessitating its shutdown. The extra load on the new well was increasing the iron content of the water, he said. The new well, he said, averages about 900 gallons a minute.

Mapletorpe asked permission of the board to have the screen inspected and possibly replaced. The board authorized the Water Dept. and committee to investigate the trouble.

The Children's Benefit League of Chicago asked permission to hold a Tag Day in the village Friday, April 22. Permission was given.

Todd Mapletorpe reported that the pumpage of water in the village was up 9 million from last year.

Derby Postponed By Mild Weather

The weather having refused to cooperate, Richard Waters, president of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club, has announced postponement of the Club's annual Ice Derby.

The Derby was scheduled for Sunday, January 9. However, Channel Lake is not entirely frozen over.

President Waters says at least six inches of ice on the lake will be necessary for the safety of the crowd at the Derby. Three consistently cold nights would produce the ice, he says, but we just haven't had them.

The Derby is now scheduled for January 16. Should the weather still refuse to cooperate, the date will be moved forward to the following Sunday until a cold spell produces the ice coat needed.

The Ice Boat Races at Fox Lake, the highlight of the Fox Lake Festival on Ice, are also postponed until the following Sunday. Like the NICC Derby, the Boat Races will be postponed until the ice is there.

However, all the other features of the Fox Lake Festival will go forward as planned. A concert by the North Shore Community Band of Wilmette will be held Friday at 8:30 p.m. at Grant High School. The Lakeland Chorus, directed by Earl Laurence of Lake Villa, will also participate in the concert.

Miss Illinois, Kathleen Oros, will be in the Fox Lake business area Saturday afternoon, and will appear at both the teen dance and the Festival Ball Saturday night.

The teen dance at Grant High will start at 8:30 p.m. Saturday night, with Clark Weber of WLS as MC. Two bands will furnish music, The Hitchhikers and the Sweet Nothings.

The Festival Ball will be held at the Fox Lake Legion

Hall starting at 9 p.m. Music will be by the Scotch Lads. The Festival Queen will be crowned at this dance.

There were 21 entries in the Festival Queen contest. The five finalists are Sharon Dam and Penny Huhn, Fox Lake; Ruth Ford, Gurnee; Carol Wiczorek, Spring Grove, and Fran May, Spring Grove.

and was aided by the Rescue Squad.

The fire apparently started from a faulty pipe from an oil space heater to the chimney. Firemen estimated damage to the building at $2,000, plus $500 damage to contents.

FIRE ON MAIN ST.

A fire in a home on south Main St., across from the Strang Funeral Home, did about $1,000 damage to the building and $200 damage to the contents.

Antioch firemen were called at noon Sunday, Jan. 2. The origin of the fire is unknown. Tod Mapletorpe, acting deputy Fire Chief, said the fire started in the insulation in a wall. There were no electrical wires or heating pipes in the area, he said. A possibility, Mapletorpe said, was that a mouse had taken something inflammable into the wall.

Car Fire, Broken Gas Pump Keep Fire Dept. Busy

The Antioch Fire Department was called out twice Tuesday, once for a minor fire and once on a stand-by basis.

Fire Department members extinguished a fire in the back seat of a 1957 Oldsmobile parked in the Jewel parking lot at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday. The car belonged to Carol Phillips, address unknown. Firemen conjectured it might have started from a cigarette.

Firemen were called to Sodman's Cito Station Tuesday at 4:50 p.m. when a gas-line truck rolled backward and broke off a gas pump. Electric sparks were flying from broken wires, adding to the danger of fire. However, a fire was avoided and firemen stood by till repairs were made.

A Salute To Ernie

Ernie Westlund has retired from active duty in the Rescue Squad, and we couldn't let the occasion pass without a few words about the years of service he's given to the people of Antioch area.

Being a Rescue Squad member isn't an easy job, in itself. It means being willing to have your personal plans cancelled at any time you're needed; being willing to take a large responsibility, the responsibility, often, for another's life, with no thought of reward other than personal satisfaction; having your sleep interrupted on a cold or stormy night, and racing out to fight the elements; hard physical labor, like carrying a heavy helpless adult down narrow stairs.

Ernie had the kind of background that makes a valuable Rescue Squad man; he had experience in ambulance work and served in the Navy as a first class Pharmacist's Mate. A pharmacist's mate may be called on to do almost anything in the way of medical help in an emergency, so Ernie's used to emergencies.

Ernie used his time and his knowledge freely in his Rescue Squad work. When he took over as Captain, succeeding Herman Holbek, he was deeply conscious of his responsibility. As Captain of the squad, it was up to him to see that all equipment was always in order, that every emergency call was answered promptly.

Ernie probably answered more calls personally than any other single man on the squad the last few years. And quite often, the time he gave to a call didn't end with a trip to the doctor or the hospital.

When he felt he could help, Ernie kept in touch with the people he'd helped on a Rescue Squad call. Sometimes just to drop in and visit with a heart attack victim; sometimes to help out those who couldn't afford service by providing transportation to the hospital.

Ernie's devoted a lot of hours of his life to helping out his fellow man, for no reward other than personal satisfaction. He says the personal satisfaction has been great. We believe him.

As he retires from active duty, Ernie said, "I'll miss the squad more than they'll miss me." We don't believe that.

But we suspect Ernie will go right on, helping a lot of people, even though he's no longer Captain of the Rescue Squad.

Xmas Skates & Thin Ice Can Add Up To Danger

The mild winter weather is a great disappointment to children who received skates, sleds or skis for Christmas. The temptation to use those new ice skates may be greater than common sense, the Lake County Safety Commission reminds us.

Although we see people out ice-fishing on lake edges, the ice is far from safe for heedless youngsters. There are open spots in lakes and channels, and a few hours of warm sun and high temperatures can add to the danger in a short time.

Parents should check the ice personally, if possible, before allowing children to go on it. And children should be thoroughly warned of the dangers of the thin ice.

Tragedies are often compounded when one child falls through the ice and another tries to help him. Rescue on ice is tricky, and one would do well to teach older children the safe methods to follow in such an emergency.

FIRE DEATHS IN HOMES

About 30 per cent of the 6,550 persons killed by home fires in the United States in 1964 were children, according to the Insurance Information Institute. Many of the victims had been left alone and perished because they were unable to protect themselves.

RISE IN AUTO THEFTS

Auto thefts in the United States have nearly tripled since 1948. There were 163,400 cars stolen in 1948 and 466,805 in 1964. Authorities stress that the best way to safeguard your car against thieves is to lock it and take the key with you.

U. S. BUSINESS FAILURES

There were 13,501 business failures in the United States in 1964. The average dollar loss per failure reached an all-time high of $98,454.

The Law Serves You

A Public Service of the ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION
WHAT IS A CHECK

A check is simply a written order directed to a bank to pay a stated sum of money to the person named in the check. If you write and sign a check, you are the "drawer," the bank that is to pay the money is the "drawee," and the person named to receive the money is the "payee." If you sign your name on the back of the check you are the "endorser."

Some Checks Are Like Cash

Some checks are almost the same as money, and if one is lost it can be cashed by anyone who finds it. For example, a check payable to "Cash," or endorsed by the person to whom it is made payable, and nothing else, is almost equivalent to cash. It can be passed from person to person without endorsement, and it is comparatively easy for an unauthorized person to cash such a check.

That is why it is wise to draw checks to "Cash" only when you are ready to use them, and wait until you are prepared to cash checks you receive before you endorse them. For example, if a check is made payable to you and you want to send it by mail to John Jones, write on the back of the check "pay to John Jones" and then sign your name beneath. By doing this, the check cannot be validly transferred unless Jones' signature is endorsed on the check.

It is always the safest procedure to draw and endorse checks to a named person. If you want to deposit in your bank account a check made payable to you, write "For Deposit Only" above your signature. Having done this, you can safely mail the check to your bank, and the money can be credited only to your account.

Certified Checks

This type of check is often used in business transactions, so that both parties are certain the check is good. When a check is presented for certification, the bank looks at the drawer's account to be sure there are sufficient funds in the account to cover the check. Then, enough money is set aside from the account in a special fund for payment of that particular check.

The Illinois law of checks is one of many business and financial procedures contained in the Uniform Commercial Code. The Code is a series of modernized laws, enacted in Illinois in 1962, that defines the rights and duties of individuals in the complex business world of today.

No Free Land, Warns Real Estate Dealer

William G. Schwandt, president of the Waukegan-Lake County Board of Realtors, announced that despite repeated warnings by the Department of the Interior the problem of misleading land advertising has not abated.

Fly-by-night promoters continue to place advertising in newspapers and magazines which lead people to believe they are dealing with an official agency. This coupled with the allure of "something for nothing" and the vestiges of truth remaining in century-old land laws, makes the land-hungry American a prime target for the scheme, Schwandt said.

A typical classified ad offers a brochure for $1.00 which lists public lands available. The Department of the Interior reports that it has reason to believe that more than 20,000 people purchased the brochure and many of them subsequently complained to the Department of the Interior.

There is no such thing as free land from the U. S. government, Schwandt pointed out. Advertising which represents otherwise for the purpose of selling lists of free land is false and deceptive.

Approve Federal Grants To Illinois

Ray Page, State Superintendent of Public Instruction has announced that proposals from 10 downstate school districts amounting to $240,000 have been approved for Title One programs under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

An additional $25,095.13 will be used to implement the programs in the proposal.

Other grants have been approved for Highland Community Unit District 5, Highland (Madison County), Valmeyer Community Unit School District 3, Valmeyer (Monroe County) and Petty Community Consolidated School District 3, Summer, (Lawrence County).

Highland will receive $40,700 for expansion of reading, mathematics and science programs and for extension of music and art programs.

Valmeyer will receive $33,920 to conduct remedial reading classes and for extension of guidance to elementary grades and extension of art and music through Educational Television.

Petty District will receive $8,504 to conduct remedial reading classes and to establish a kindergarten.

Title One is a program aimed at meeting the special needs of educationally deprived children. Illinois has been allotted $61,000,000 by the federal act. Of this amount $34,000,000 has been earmarked for Cook County, including $31,000,000 for the City of Chicago, and $27,000,000 for downstate schools.

How To Get The Most From Your Heating Dollar

As winter begins to move in, in earnest, the Oil Heat Council of Greater Chicago passes along a number of tips to help homeowners get the most heating comfort from the fewest dollars, regardless of the type of heating system in use.

The Oil Heat Council of Greater Chicago is made up of heating oil dealers. Here are the group's eleven suggestions for cutting oil, gas or electric waste.

Before retiring for the night, set the thermostat about 7 degrees below the daytime reading. Over a heating season, this will save a considerable amount of fuel. This night set-back should be consistent if savings are to be achieved.

Turn the thermostat down during the day when nobody is home.

Close off the radiators or registers in rooms that are being aired. Do the same with unused rooms. Be sure to close the door, of course.

Be sure your attic is closed off. Remember, heated air rises.

When you open the bedroom windows at night, close the door of the room, to keep the rest of the house warm.

Have your heating system checked once a year to be sure it is operating at peak efficiency.

Do not locate furniture, rugs, draperies, etc., where they cover or block the flow of heat from radiators, convectors or diffusers. Such objects interfere with heat circulation and distribution. Repair or replace leaky hot water faucets. When using hot water, turn the cold water on first, then slowly open the hot water faucet until the desired temperature is reached. This will save considerable amounts of hot water.

Appropriate weatherstripping and caulking of joints and seams at windows and doors, etc., can save much fuel. Storm windows and doors and adequate insulation are fuel cost cutters, too.

On warm air heating systems, replace the air filters at least once every year and clean filters frequently. This will prevent reduction in the amount of heated air delivered to the rooms.

If you have a hot water or steam heating system, check to be sure the water in the boiler is clean and free of dirt or grease. Radiators should be checked from time to time and vented, so that air collected in them will not prevent hot water from flowing freely.

$200 Million To Be Spent On Ill. Roads In 1966

The 1966 Primary Highway Improvement Program will provide for right-of-way acquisition and construction projects costing an estimated $217,500,000, according to an announcement made by Governor Otto Kerner.

Of the total amount available, $147,200,000 is earmarked for work on interstate highways and $70,300,000 for noninterstate highways. Right-of-way costs are expected to total about one-sixth of the program.

The state will provide $41,400,000 of the total available, local sources will provide $17,000,000, federal funds will provide $159,100,000 of which $132,500,000 must be used on interstate highways and $26,600,000 on noninterstate routes.

The 1966 highway program provides for the continued construction of interstate highways as rapidly as federal funds permit. Eight lettings are scheduled for 1966, the first one in Springfield on January 28.

During 1966 it is anticipated Illinois will be apportioned $6,000,000 in federal funds for highway beautification. Locations where these funds can most appropriately be utilized are now under study. Projects to be undertaken will consist of landscaping primary highways, rest areas on primary highways and procurement of scenic easements.

Romanian Art At Science Museum

One of the most colorful exhibits to come to the United States under the cultural exchange program will be the display of Romanian tapestries and glass and ceramic art creations that opens in the east wing of Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry on Thursday, Jan. 6. It will remain on public view through Sunday, Jan. 30.

The exhibit includes 55 tapestries and 19 other samples of the development in the decorative arts in Romania in the past decade. Occupying its central spot is one of the largest tapestries in the world. Entitled "Ode to Man," and created in 1963 by Ion Nicodim, one of Romania's most highly rated art figures, it covers a wall space of 434 square feet and has been valued at more than $100,000.

All of the tapestries reflect recent Romanian trends toward a national style of decoration, "revealed as a synthesis of both tradition and innovation, of folklore and universality," according to a special catalogue prepared for the show.

Throughout the exhibit there is a noticeable variety of decorative concepts and technical methods as well as the use of different raw materials.

Two Hurt When Car Hits Pole

Two people were injured when their car hit a utility pole on Grass Lake Road near Haling's resort early Saturday morning, Jan. 1.

The accident happened at about 3:30 a.m. The driver of the car, Gerald Turk, 39, of Rt. 1, Antioch, and Mrs. Mildred Behling, 37, of Rt. 1, Trevor, Wis., were taken to St. Theresa Hospital, Waukegan, where they were reported in fair condition.

March of Dimes Fights Birth Defects

The slogan for this year's March of Dimes is "Open the Door."

The slogan has triple emphasis: to open the door to knowledge, the startling fact that one out of every 16 children is born defective; to open the door to understanding. Instead of being ashamed, parents must accept their child's defect and seek all available help; to open the door to hope and health with research and patient aid through the March of Dimes.

The campaign goal is $750,000. The month-long drive will open January 1. Birth defect victims in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties can receive complete diagnosis, evaluation and treatment at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Special Treatment Center at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital.

Current research grants support scientific projects at 36 institutions located in 20 states.

The National Foundation is designing new educational materials and making broader use of nearly every method of communication to speed scientific information about birth defects to members of the health professions, as well as to the general public. To secure for every baby the best chance for normal development, the National Foundation has initiated a long-range pre-natal care program.

Farmers Ask For Higher Milk Price

Federated Dairy Cooperatives, the superpool bargaining agency for Chicago market dairy farmers, has notified all Chicago milk dealers it intends to terminate the present superpool pricing program after January 31, 1966, and request a new and higher superpool price for producers for the 12 months following that date.

This was learned today from Avery A. Vose, president of the Federated Dairy Cooperatives, who commented that the superpool price paid Chicago market dairy farmers has remained "virtually unchanged" since 1960 and must be raised to offset rising costs of producing milk on the farm.

"As the costs of producing milk continue to rise, farmers are quitting their dairy farm operations much too rapidly and remedial action is necessary to make adequate supplies of milk available now and in the future," Vose declared.

The superpool is a price which milk dealers pay dairy farmers over and above the Federal milk market order price the U. S. Department

CALORIE COUNTING HELPS CONTROL DRINKING

Need a new weapon to help you fight the battle of the bulge? The newest, it would appear, is arithmetic. That's what Dr. Morton B. Glenn of New York University's School of Medicine reported to fellow physicians who attended the recent scientific meeting of the American College of Nutrition.

In cooperation with 100 people he was treating for overweight, the doctor made a careful determination of the amount of alcohol each patient consumed in a day. Usually the patient was amazed to discover that he was actually drinking more than he had thought. The two martinis-for-lunch man had a tendency to forget the wine with dinner and the cans of beer during TV viewing, the doctor observed.

Made aware that they were drinking ten per cent. or more of their total daily caloric intake, patients willingly cut down on their alcohol in order to lose weight. Being a realist, the doctor recognized that for some people drinking is what he calls a "cultural need." For these folk, a certain amount of alcohol was included in each diet. The drinker had to expect a slower rate of weight loss than the non-drinker.

Average is what all of us think we're smarter than.

Spring Ball To Benefit Mental Health Society

The Antioch Woman's Club has given its support to the Lake County Museum, the Countryside Hospital Fund, the Antioch Aquacenter, Girl Scouts, and other organizations.

Iron Cooking Pot Aids Nutrition

"I hate to see the disappearance of the old-fashioned cast iron Dutch oven from American kitchens," Dr. Carl V. Moore, authority on anemia, told a recent session of the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association in Cleveland. "Food cooked in this type of utensil has a much higher iron content," the doctor said, "and the gradual substitution of aluminum and stainless steel for iron in the manufacture of cooking utensils may have a most unfortunate effect on dietary iron intake."

Most healthy American men and postmenopausal women probably get enough iron in their three meals a day, the doctor observed, but deficiencies are likely to occur in growing children, younger women and pregnant women.

The Washington University Medical School blood specialist noted that studies of the iron intake of populations all over the world show that the large amount of iron consumed by the Bantus of Africa is due to their custom of cooking food and fermenting beverages in iron pots. A high iron content has also been found in food served in military messes, where cooking is done in iron vessels, Dr. Moore said.

"These studies prompted us to explore the effects of cooking in Dutch ovens and to measure the iron content of seven foods cooked for the same period of time in glass dishes and cast iron skillets," Dr. Moore told the meeting. "There was a significantly higher iron content in fried potatoes, rice, beef hash, scrambled eggs and gravy cooked in iron. But the most impressive results were obtained with spaghetti sauce and apple butter, which were cooked for the longest periods of time."

"BUILDING A SOUND MARRIAGE"

Most happy marriages come from daily love and care. Building this relationship often seems hard but this broadcast will show the need for a deeper foundation and a more spiritual understanding of God that puts marriage on a firmer basis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and they shall be my people." This promise from Jeremiah, along with many other Bible citations, is part of the communion service on "Sacrament" to be held in Christian Science churches this Sunday, January 9.

Related passages to be read from the denominational textbook include these lines: "When the human element in him struggled with the divine, our great Teacher said: 'Not my will, but Thine, be done!—that is, Let not the flesh, but the Spirit, be represented in me. This is the new understanding of spiritual Love. It gives all for Christ, or Truth. It blesses its enemies, heals the sick, casts out error, raises the dead from trespasses and sins, and preaches the gospel to the poor, the meek in heart.'" Visits Parents Before Leaving For Venezuela

Mr. and Mrs. James Dale Smith of Lawrence, Kansas, were in Antioch visiting Mrs. Smith's parents during the Christmas holidays before leaving for a year in Venezuela.

Mrs. Smith is the former Nancy Nemece. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nemece of Route 5, Antioch. The Smiths had a chance to visit with many friends and relatives at an "At Home" given by Nancy's parents during their stay.

The Smiths also visited Mr. Smith's family in Oneida, Ill., during the holidays.

Mr. Smith will teach zoology at the University of Oriente in Cumana, Venezuela, for the next year. The Smiths leave for Venezuela in January, part of a corps of teachers from the University of Kansas, who are helping the Venezuelans to reform their university system.

Latin American colleges have traditionally served only the wealthy. They were a cluster of professional schools, with no central libraries, no student services and no dormitories. The teachers were professional men who taught on a part-time basis.

There was no link between the high schools and the universities, and no continuity of education. The failure rate of students was high.

The new universities, like Oriente, are being created in a new pattern, similar to our universities. They are

Tax Offices To Be Reduced

Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division branch offices in the Internal Revenue Service's Midwest Region will operate under a new organizational realignment, it was recently announced. Effective Jan. 1, 1966, the five branch offices presently serving the Midwest will be reduced to three in number.

Primarily affected by the change are A&T activities in Omaha, Neb., and Milwaukee, Wis. Under the reorganization, these offices will function as field offices rather than branch offices, with supervisory duties transferred to the St. Louis, Mo., and St. Paul, Minn., A&T branch offices, respectively. The Chicago branch office will remain unchanged.

The purpose for the reorganization, it was stated, is to strengthen the supervision of the permissive and enforcement functions of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax activity, to make branch office structure more uniform, and to eliminate excessive overhead requirements for supervisory and clerical personnel.

Personnel affected by its reorganization will be given comparable positions in other IRS offices.

Antioch Adventurers Study Photography

Four members of the Antioch Adventurers 4-H group met at the home of Mrs. Donald Fischer Dec. 14. The girls reviewed the parts of a camera, film sizes were explained and the girls learned how to load a camera.

On December 30, eighteen members of the club, accompanied by three mothers, went to Fox River Park for a winter picnic.

Always be tolerant with those who disagree with you. After all, they have a perfect right to their ridiculous opinions.

Percy Calls On College Youth For Constructive Action

Charles H. Percy told the University of Illinois student body Tuesday night that public spirited young people will be judged by the quality of their thought and by their commitment to superior accomplishment.

In a nonpolitical speech to 2000 students in the University Auditorium in Champaign, Percy mentioned recent student demonstrations throughout the country. He cited the Berkeley campus agitation, saying of those students: "They fought like true Americans for the greatest of American principles, the right of free speech. And when they had won and the nation then cocked an ear to find out what it was they wanted to tell the world, the best the most vociferous of them could produce was four-letter words on placards."

On the other hand, Percy said, many student groups have been able to identify the legitimate human needs in our society and have taken constructive action. He mentioned particularly the tutoring projects for slum children carried out by volunteer college students in many urban centers, including Chicago.

Percy cautioned the students against affecting unconventional dress and manners as a rebuke to society. He called this style "an argument of inarticulate superficiality," adding that it has been a characteristic of some unusually gifted people to be unconcerned about their personal appearance, but that to emulate this "lowest and least significant aspect of their lives" certainly cannot make of the mimic a better man in any way.

He said that "if students have a protest about the conduct of foreign policy or the treatment of Negro citizens or neglect of the poor in our midst, it is our duty not only to tolerate but to encourage such concern for the public good, such attention to the rights of all citizens, and

6,000 New Jobs Listed In Labor Dept. Dictionary

Into the world of modern technology have come the "Squeak-Rattle and Leak Man," the "Kiss Setter," and the "mud Man."

To explain what these and 36,000 other job titles mean, the Department of Labor has issued a new "Dictionary of Occupational Titles," no rival to "Gone With the Wind," but a best seller in books of this nature.

"This third edition of the dictionary is the most comprehensive guidebook to a changing world of jobs ever published," said Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz. It contains 6,000 job titles not listed in previous editions, most of them in the aircraft and guided missile industries, electronics, and atomic energy.

The two-volume dictionary lists and describes what a worker does in each job, how he does it, and the level of skill required to perform the job efficiently. Most of the 6,000 new occupations have titles of technical jargon such as "Nuclear Medical Technician," "Gamma Facilities Operator," "Radiation Monitor," and "Assembler-Rocket Engine."

Then there are the picturesque, like that "Squeak-Rattle-and-Leak Man." What does he do? He is an auto mechanic specializing in test runs. The "Kiss Setter" merely shapes candy kisses by hand and the "Mud Man" reclaims rubber particles from sludge in the rubber industry. The Dictionary contains 32,000 occupational categories and will be used nationwide in the 1,900 State Employment Service offices to plan training projects under the Manpower Development and Training Act and in the job placement process for matching workers and jobs.

The national network of the Labor Department's Youth Opportunity Centers will also use the Dictionary in job counseling and job referral. Public schools and colleges also use the dictionary for basic job information needed in vocational and career guidance programs.

Previous editions have had a wide range of readers. First issued in 1939, it was revised, 10 years later and that edition went through 13 printings for a total of 104,000 copies.

This current edition was 15 years in the making. It took intensive research at 75,000 job sites to compile and explain the radical shifts in the kind of jobs by which people make their living today. Nearly 100,000 workers and their employers were interviewed by occupational analysts from the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security and affiliated State Employment Services. Work patterns and characteristics, job environment, and worker traits were studied, analyzed, and compiled. It was found that some 7,000 jobs have either become obsolete or were combined with others since the end of World War II.

The New Dictionary will be sold to the public by the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. The price is $9.25 for the two-volume set. Volume I, listing occupations in alphabetical order by job title, may be purchased separately at $5 and Volume II, listing the same jobs by occupations, worker traits, and industry, will be sold for $4.25.

Farm Bureau Meeting On January 11

A meeting on Farm Records will be held on Tuesday, January 11, in the Farm Bureau Building on the Lake County fair grounds. The purpose of the meeting is to explain the method for using the new 1966 Illinois Farm Record Books—according to Ray T. Nicholas, Lake County Farm Adviser. The meeting will be held from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Mr. W. Allen Bouslog, Area Adviser in Farm Management, will review the 660 page receipt and expense book and the depreciation schedule book. The specialist will explain in detail where to enter each income and expense item and how to determine the amount to allow for depreciation on buildings, livestock, machinery and equipment.

New Education Board Meets

Ray Page, State Superintendent of Public Instruction has announced that the nine member Sex Education Advisory Board will hold its first meeting at 10 a.m. today (Thursday, Jan. 6).

The Board was established in House Bill 1833—passed by the General Assembly—which established a Division of Sex Education in the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The law specifies that representatives of the Illinois Youth Commission, Department of Public Aid, Department of Public Health, Department of Mental Health and Department of Children and Family Services, and four additional members appointed by Superintendent Page comprise the committee.

Members appointed by Superintendent Page are Norman S. Green, Superintendent of Aurora East Administration Center; Franklin R. Fitch, M. D., Illinois Social Hygiene League, Chicago; Dr. Howard S. Hoyman, Professor of Health, Education, University of Illinois, and Very Rev. Monsignor Raymond J. Wahl, J.D.C., Superintendent, Rockford Diocesan Schools.

Other members of the board are Norman J. Rose, M.D., Department of Public Health; Dr. Arthur E. Wright, Illinois Youth Commission; Dr. Mortimer Brown, Department of Mental Health; Mrs. Janet Kahler, Department of Public Aid, and Lee A. Iverson, Department of Children and Family Services.

Thomas M. Janeway, supervisor, Health Education, Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, will represent the state office at the meeting.

EDUCATION AND THE GOLDEN AGE

What should be the objectives of education—and of those who are education's recipients? A good answer to that comes from President Gerhold of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

As he sees it, America's Golden Age will arrive when education produces "scientists who are not ignorant of politics, politicians who are not ignorant of science and businessmen who can rejoice in a sunset or a sonata as well as in the chatter of a computer." Then, later, he said, "Education should be a philosophy. It should be out nation's way of life. Young people should aspire to knowledge for its own sake. Those who are deprived of worldly goods, and a good start in life, should look for enrichment of their minds as well as their pocketbooks. Those who have specialized in one branch of knowledge should branch out in other directions."

We live in a world and a time in which everything, one way or another, is related. Business, politics, the sciences, the arts—all touch and influence each other. The whole man, using that phrase in the classic Greek sense, must be concerned with them all and have a knowledge of them all.

IN UNIONS THERE IS STRENGTH

From the Garnett, Kansas, Review: "Because of their ever-increasing voter strength, labor union command a much greater voice in government year after year. Any proposal they make, regardless of its effect on employers, is given consideration and usually passed. Antitrust laws have been ruled, in most cases, as not applying to them. Even the union leaders themselves are beginning to realize that some of their demands are becoming excessive. Unless Congress wakes up and recognizes that both sides of a labor issue need protection, the economic future of our country may be in danger."

Farm Record Books is now on hand in the Farm Adviser's office at the Lake County fair grounds. They will also be available for the meeting on Jan. 11.

The 1966 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide is also available at the office.

Red Cross Volunteers Brighten Xmas Holidays

Thousands of persons in Lake County had a happier holiday because of the efforts of scores of American Red Cross youth and adult volunteers—and the help of other Lake County residents.

Through their good work, gifts, cookies, goodies, and cheer have been spread to hospitalized patients, veterans, servicemen, and less-fortunate children.

Cooperating to make all of these efforts by the Lake County Region of the American Red Cross—successful were its Office of Volunteers, headed by Mrs. Clifford Leonard, Lake Forest, and Red Cross Youth, headed by Mrs. David Cantwell, Waukegan.

Some 20,000 cookies donated by more than 100 persons in the county were among the goodies distributed during the holidays. The cookies were individually packed and distributed by volunteers to patients at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital, the Downey VA Hospital, the Lake County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, the Lake County Home for the Aged, and to children at the Lake County General Hospital.

Among the many who baked and supplied cookies for the patients were three generations within a single family that baked 200 dozen cookies. Another woman baked what Red Cross volunteers described as "artistically perfect" gingerbread Santa Clauses—perfect down to the brass buttons on his tunic and the filled pack on his back.

Helping to pack the cookies at the Lake County Regional office of the Red Cross in Waukegan were six students from Zion High School and three students from the West Campus of Waukegan Township High School.

The Lake Forest and Highland Park Woman's Clubs have been baking cookies on a regular basis for the patients at Great Lakes Hospital.

Red Cross Youth helped to brighten Christmas for many in other ways as well.

Pupils at the Gurnee Grammar School filled 20 Christmas stockings with toys and gifts for little patients at a children's hospital in Chicago. A group of eight students from Zion High School took treats to patients at the Great Lakes Hospital and entertained them with games.

Eighty adult volunteers devoted more than 7000 woman-hours to assist servicemen in wrapping Christmas presents for their families and friends. Thirty-two Red Cross volunteers wrapped presents at Great Lakes Naval Hospital, and another 48 performed the service for sailors at Great Lakes Main-side. The volunteers worked from 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. five days a week and one Saturday morning.

Red Cross volunteers at the Grove School in Waukegan, gave a luncheon for the children they have been working with and supplied the youngsters with Christmas gifts.

"Voices from Home" messages—recorded greetings to be mailed to servicemen and others away from home over the holidays—were made for Lake Countyans at three locations: Highland Park, Grayslake, and Waukegan.

Those accident policies that appear so precise and emphatic at time of purchase turn out to be puzzlers after you stumble and twist an ankle.

Plucky Girl Launches A Crusade on 'Sourpussedness' in Teachers

The trouble with the grammar school teachers of America is that they all get out of the wrong side of bed in the morning when the alarm clock goes off.

Then, seemingly, all of them breakfast on prune juice or growl on a lemon, or both. After that they vent their ill-humor on the kids at school.

This view, unquestionably in error, is the conviction nonetheless of 11-year-old Janice Lilly, of Choctaw, Okla., who determined to abolish outbursts of "sourpussedness" among the elementary school teachers in her town of 1700 inhabitants, a few miles east of Oklahoma City.

One might suppose, after talking to Janice's detractors, that this young reformer had more than enough to do just taking care of herself, without worrying about the early-morning irascibility of the faculty of 27 young women at Choctaw school.

At the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center, University of Oklahoma Medical Center, Oklahoma City, the specialists tell you that Janice was born with multiple deformities. The child has foreshortened forearms, underdeveloped knees, clubfeet, and outward-turning feet; and they add that after seven operations it's a miracle that Janice is able to attend school at all, and without crutches or leg braces. She also rides horseback, and a bike, skips rope, outplays most of the kids at basketball, and for her age is a full year ahead at school.

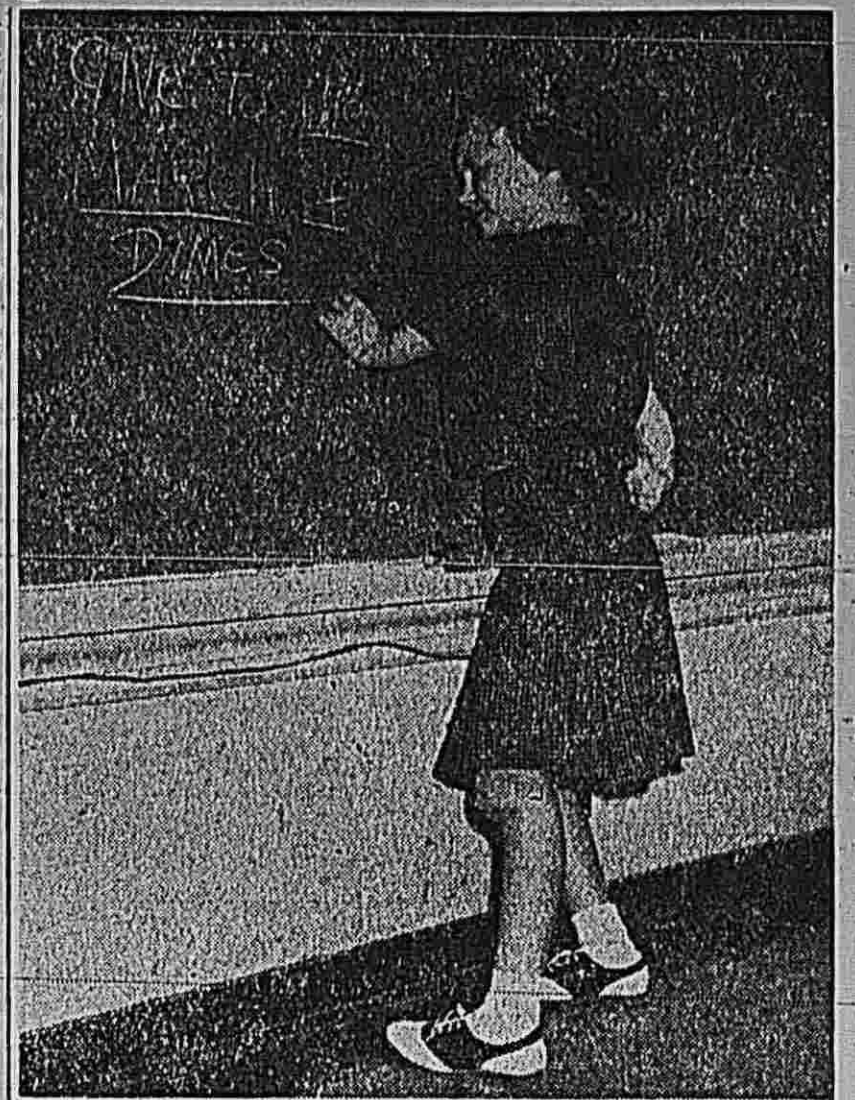

How come this one-little-girl crusade to elevate the morning morale of the teachers at Choctaw Elementary?

"Well, sir, I woke up one beautiful morning," she says, "and like always at breakfast I groaned about having to go to school."

"I like always, my older brother hawks at me. 'Shut up.' (He doesn't know any other words.) But my older sister said, 'You don't make sense. Because most of the time after school, you're making up stories about how much you love school and your teacher, and about your arms not being long enough to hug her. So what're you hollerin' about?'"

"All of a sudden, then, I saw that my sister was right. Most of the time I like school fine. It's just that in the morning all the teachers act and talk like they would love to beat us over the head with a chair leg. Well, I reckoned I could do something about it."

What Janice did was to persuade two stouthearted classmates to join her at school next morning before the bell rang. With arms around each other's waist, they marched the length of a long corridor, howling out "Hello Dolly!" and "Everybody Loves Somebody."

Janice and her co-conspirators were reprimanded and sent home. But the next morning there was a repeat performance (with other choruses they had heard on television or radio), and a few of the teachers unwittingly joined in, together with some 100 small and electrified rebels.

"This was clearly a violation of the rule book," says Principal Lola Williams with mock severity, "which specifies 'decent and seemly conduct at all times enroute to class.' But what could you do? And I must admit that this unprecedented uproar has improved the morale of the teachers and the pupils and myself at the start of the day. It was all the inspiration of a little crippled child who never permits any of us even to suspect what it's like to be born seriously handicapped."

"Maybe it would be a sound idea if the other 100,000 elementary schools in the nation borrowed Janice's idea."

"There may be a slight interruption in her nationwide project when Janice reenters the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center to undergo more surgery on her kneecaps. But she explains with some impatience that for her an eighth operation requires a lot less nerve than was needed the first time she dispelled the morning gloom at Choctaw Elementary.

Sequoits Knocked Out Of Holiday Tournament

Antioch's basketball fortunes took a disappointing turn over the holidays as the team lost to Peoria Spaulding in their first game of the Rockford Classic basketball tourney Dec. 28.

The Sequoits led throughout most of the game but lost their composure late in the contest when Peoria went into a press defense and began to whittle away the lead.

The 53-50 final tally in Tuesday night's contest put the Sequoits in the consolation bracket. Looking more like the team they were expected to be, the Sequoits quint easily toppled Dundee in Wednesday night's round 66-48.

Mike Sterbenz led the attack on Dundee, pouring in 21 points on 10 baskets and one free throw. Three other Sequoits hit in double figures as Tyrone Walls hit for 15 points and Tom Blackman and Bob Schenk collected 11 and 10 respectively.

Walls and Blackman teamed up for 16 rebounds to give the Sequoits a commanding 50 to 40 edge on the backboards.

Thursday in the semifinals of the Consolation bracket Antioch met the Chicago Carver and went down in defeat for the second time in the tourney.

Antioch hit on only 14 of 65 attempts from the field for a poor 20%. In spite of their inability to find the range the Sequoits played good, hard defense, holding Carver to 54 points in the 54 to 42 loss.

Sterbenz again led the Sequoits in scoring with 19 points while Walls kept the Sequoits even on the boards with 14 rebounds. The loss dropped the Sequoits from the tourney title.

Coach Roger Andrews issued thanks and appreciation to all the fans who supported the team during the tournament in spite of the difficult times of the games.

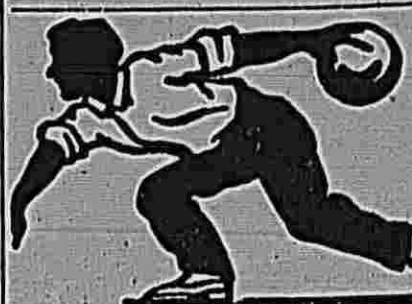

"Tournament officials were impressed enough with our following and our basketball that we have been issued a blanket invitation to return as long as we want to," Andrews added.

The Sequoits return to action in the Conference Friday night with a home game against Lake Zurich. The Bears' record, although not impressive, shows they have given some good teams a good game.

Antioch will be trying to get back on the winning track Friday after suffering two losses in the tourney.

Sophomores Adopt Unit In Vietnam

Illinois Wesleyan University's sophomore class has "adopted" a fighting unit in Vietnam and is sponsoring several events to raise money for the fighting men.

On Thursday, Dec. 16, the entire university observed a "no dessert day" to collect money for the fighting unit and for their Civic Action Program which aids the Vietnamese people.

The second fund raising project will be an all-school dance on Jan. 14 and the third project will be a basketball game played between IWU students and Illinois State University students riding on donkeys at the IWU fieldhouse on Jan. 21.

"We plan to send paper back books, magazines, pop corn, games, playing cards, hometown newspapers, and some foods to the 173rd Airborne Brigade" the chairman said.

"In addition, school kits, sewing kits, family toilet kits and fabric material will be sent to Vietnamese people from the Civic Action Program," she added.

GAME OF WAR

Many times in the course of history, thousands of men fought and died over a small wooden bridge whose significance they knew nothing essential about—in fact, perhaps there was nothing essential about the bridge in dispute. The game these men were playing is called "War" and the object is simple: Kill or get killed. Tens of thousands over the centuries have died fighting for a fraction of land less than a single acre, while all around these thousands were millions of acres not even being used. But again, the game was war.—Mt. Sterling Democrat-Message.

SAFEGUARD YOUR HEALTH

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE ILLINOIS STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY

SENIOR CITIZENS SHOULD RECONSIDER BEFORE DROPPING HEALTH INS.

If you are over 65 years of age, you may be considering dropping your health insurance—figuring that the new Medicare bill will take care of you. You'd be wise to reconsider.

"It is important to re-emphasize that the law does not meet all hospital and related care costs for the aged," is the warning of Dr. Burtis E. Montgomery, Harrisburg, president of the Illinois State Medical Society.

Dr. Montgomery feels senior citizens should hold onto their health insurance because while the law takes effect July, 1966, some aspects of it do not begin until January, 1967.

He warns potential medicare applicants of these points:

HOSPITAL CARE

Although the plan covers all services—including those of residents and interns in training—it will NOT cover the payment for physical services, private duty nursing, nor the full cost of a private room.

The plan covers a total of hospitalization for each "spell of illness." BUT a new "spell of illness" begins AFTER you have been out of a hospital or nursing home at least 60 consecutive days.

You must pay the first $40 of the hospital bill.

You pay $10 per day after 60 days for the remaining 30 days of each "spell of illness."

NURSING HOME CARE

Coverage of nursing home care does not begin until January, 1967.

When it begins, the plan covers you for a total of 100 days in each "spell of illness."

For only 20 days does the plan meet the FULL cost of nursing home care. You pay $5 per day, after the 20th day, for the remaining 80 days. You must have been hospitalized at least three days to qualify for the above.

HOME HEALTH CARE

This pays for cost of up to 100 visits a year by a nurse, therapist or home health aid. BUT:

To qualify, you (1) must have been discharged from a hospital or nursing home; (2) must be under a physician's care; and (3) must be under a home health care plan established by your physician.

HOSPITAL OUT-PATIENT DIAGNOSTIC SERVICES

You must pay the first $20 in this plan covering laboratory and other studies.

You must also pay 20% of the additional charges for studies completed by the same hospital during a 20 day period.

Only 190 days in YOUR ENTIRE LIFETIME is covered for hospitalization for mental illness.

A smile is a gentle curved line which sets a lot of things straight.

The game of basketball was invented in 1891 by Dr. James Naismith of Springfield, Mass. At that time, there were nine men on each side.

Tyrone Walls

Walls Named All Tourney

The big bright spot for the Sequoits in the Rockford Holiday Tournament came after the tourney was officially over. Antioch's Tyrone Walls was named to the first team All Tourney squad.

Walls scored 43 points in three games, picked off 44 rebounds and kept the tourney fans excited with his sparkling floor play. Walls' strong rebounding against taller opponents and his good defensive play were major factors in his selection.

Another Sequoit gained tourney recognition when Mike Sterbenz dumped in 59 points or almost 20 points per game for the three games.

The first team selections were Seth Miller, Rockford Auburn forward, Randy Nyberg, Rockford Harlem forward, Drew Corley, Carl Sandberg center, Herbert Johnson, Chicago Harlan guard, and Walls, Antioch guard.

Second team: Cecil Nichols, Harlem forward, Roddy Johns, Mundelein forward, Clifford Meely, Harlan center, Conrad Brooks, Peoria Spaulding guard, and Bob Blotcher, Auburn guard.

Other honorable mention selections were Percy Ellis, Rockford Auburn and Ken Haynes of Dixon.

Ski Show At Fox River Grove To Go On As Scheduled

Thanks to modern snow-making machines, the annual ski tournament of the Norge Ski Club at Fox River Grove will go on as scheduled on January 16.

The ski club has traditionally held its tournaments on the third Sunday in January. The only time it was necessary to cancel the contest was in 1920, when not one shovel of snow could be found in Illinois.

This happened again in 1922, but this time the club was ready. Arrangements were made to have 200 tons of snow shipped in from northern Wisconsin by box car. Farmers were hired to haul the snow from the railway to the jumping hill by horse and wagon.

Since 1944, Norge has quit depending on Mother Nature. They now grind ice into snow flakes, and many skiers prefer the new type of snow.

Children should be seen and not hurt.

Red Cross Reports On Finances Of Last Year

The American National Red Cross spent over two million dollars a week to carry out its program of disaster relief and social welfare services last year, said Leo H. Schoenhofen, president of Container Corporation of America and volunteer chairman of the Mid-America Chapter, American Red Cross, based in Chicago.

Schoenhofen said the national organization, consisting of 3,052 Red Cross chapters around the country, spent a total of $108 million between July 1, 1964 and June 30, 1965. The figures are included in the national organization's annual report, released January 2.

The $108 million was for Red Cross aid to disaster victims, services to military personnel or veterans and their dependents, and for health and educational programs benefiting millions of Americans.

Schoenhofen said two million Americans are volunteers in the American National Red Cross. Volunteer leaders plan and administer the organization's tasks and moneys. The Mid-America Chapter, which serves Cook, DuPage, Lake and Will counties and part of Kane county, is the largest Red Cross chapter in the nation—both in the number of active volunteers giving free time and energy and in the number of citizens served by Red Cross activities.

"Nearly 20,000 citizens in the five counties around Chicago's Loop are members of our unpaid 'work force,'" said Schoenhofen. "These folks bring free Red Cross services to six million residents of the area." The volunteers plan the Mid-America Chapter's goals, raise and appropriate contributed funds, carry out all programs and review the results.

Reviewing activity up to June 30, 1965, Schoenhofen said the American Red Cross spent more than $15 million for disaster assistance to victims of catastrophes in 50 states, three territories and 16 other countries where American citizens reside. The Red Cross fed, clothed or housed over 650,000 disaster victims.

The worst tragedies were the 1965 spring floods in Illinois and other midwestern states, and the Pam Sunday tornadoes, which killed 260 persons and injured 3,200 others in Illinois and surrounding states.

Disaster volunteers from the Mid-America Chapter offered help to 4,629 area citizens involved in 562 home and apartment fires and other catastrophes.

Last year, worldwide services to military personnel and their families cost Red Cross $39 million. Locally, the chapter came into contact with 10,000 servicemen and their families. Social service workers answered 40,000 requests for aid from military personnel and private citizens.

The Red Cross issued 3.7 million certificates to citizens across the country completing in free swimming, water safety, first aid, mother-baby care and home nursing classes. Locally, Mid-America Chapter awarded 35,000 first aid, 9,400 home nursing and mother-baby care and 125,000 swimming certificates.

Nation-wide expenditures for instruction programs were about $8.7 million. Another $5 million went to finance Red Cross programs for 17 million youngsters in elementary, junior and senior high schools and for 50,000 college students.

The Red Cross also spent $15 million for the blood program; $12 million for planning and administration for the national organization and its 3,052 chapters; $3 million for membership and fund raising; and $8.6 million for international services, public information and other community services.

TURF MONEYS

A final report of the Illinois Racing Board for the year 1965 shows a total mutual handle for both turf and harness racing of $458,597,974.

The state's share in revenue from wagering, license and admissions totaled $30,501,429. The 1964 figures were: Mutuel handle, $425,063,781; revenue, $27,804,179.

The report lists 307 days of racing for turf meetings at seven Illinois tracks. Harness racing was held on 242 days at seven meetings.

Attendance at racing events totaled 6,415,900 in 1965, compared with 6,200,040 in 1964.

Average per capita wager was $79.35 at jockey racing and $61.17 at harness meetings.

Review Winter Driving Habits, Say Police

With traffic accidents and deaths reaching new highs almost every month, and with more motorists on the streets and highways, the individual motorist must accept greater personal responsibility for his own safety, says Quinn Tamm, Executive Director, International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"The police of our nation are doing a splendid job of enforcing traffic laws, but unfortunately there are not enough of them in most states and local communities," the police executive said. "Every driver, therefore, must accept the challenge to improve his own driving skills and set an example to others by obeying all traffic laws and supporting the police in their huge task of keeping the traffic law violators from killing themselves and others."

He pointed out that especially during the winter months, it is vitally important for motorists to accept the added responsibility of driving safely under adverse weather conditions.

"In addition to the normal dangers of driving that we encounter every day in the year, winter imposes two additional hazards—inadequate traction and reduced visibility. These can spell disaster to the unwary driver who fails to recognize them for what they are," Tamm pointed out.

"Most drivers winterize their cars, but too few winterize their driving habits. When pavements are slippery and visibility is poor, the wise motorist reduces his speed accordingly, keeps a longer distance between his car and other traffic, approaches intersections with extra care, steers smoothly and brakes gently.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1966 THE ANTIOCH NEWS 8

"Courtesy, common sense and extra care are the marks of the responsible driver. He is the one most likely to get through winter's worst weather without an accident—or a traffic ticket," Tamm concluded.

Be Ready If Lights Go Out

Blackouts that affect 30,000,000 people are about as rare as the still mysterious chain of events that caused the first one. But regional power failures are as common as their main cause: bad weather.

With winter coming, most of us can expect either snow storms, electrical storms, floods or maybe fallen trees that will leave us without electricity for anywhere from two to 24 hours.

Here is some advice on preparations for safety and comfort when there is no electricity.

First of all, know just how dependent upon electricity is your household—and then be prepared with substitutes.

Walking in the Dark
The value of candles and flashlights was never more obvious than on the night of Nov. 9 in the northeastern part of the country. But how many candles had safe holders? And how many flashlights were in working order?

The best candles are the sturdy, long-lasting type. Plumbbers use, or votive lights, or insect repellent candles. But save the stubs of your dinner candles—they're useful in an emergency. The best candle holder is a hurricane lamp with a glass funnel to protect the flame. Some precautions: Insert candle firmly in holder; when walking with a candle, grasp the candle as well as the holder, shield the flame with your other hand.

and hold the candle away from your body. WALK SLOWLY.

Flashlights are safer than candles. Having one for each member of the family is not extravagant; it may prevent a burn or a fall, and is good for children's morale. Check flashlights often and keep spare batteries and bulbs where they're easy to find in the dark. Keep a stock of matches in a waterproof box there, too.

If you must walk in the dark, move slowly. Hold your arms out in front of you with wrists crossed and palms out.

If your heating source is cut off, don't try to heat the whole house—just keep yourselves warm. Extra blankets and warm clothing should be on hand. Blankets will help keep something cold, too. Covering your freezer will insulate it.

Thoughts for Food
Maintain a small stock of canned foods that need no cooking: tuna, peanut butter, luncheon meats, tinned crackers, powdered milk and fruit juices. Extra baby food, canned milk and special dietary foods, if needed, are a must.

Canned heat stoves are inexpensive and quite adequate for heating coffee, tea, soups or the variety of ready-to-use canned food available. Keep on hand a supply of those your family especially likes. Do you have a hand-operated can opener? Don't starve because yours is electric.

Will your water supply be cut off? Don't forget the water you have on hand in the form of ice cubes and frost in your refrigerator, and the water in your hot water tank. Tap water stored in glass jars with rubber seals will remain potable for six weeks.

Safety Check-list
Top on your list should be a first-aid book and kit. Don't wait for the lights to go out before you read the book. Learn what to do in case of burns, breaks or shock before the emergency arises. And make sure fresh supplies are in your kit.

Never reach for medicine in your medicine cabinet in the dark. Remember to set out any pill or medication (for diabetes, nervous tension, birth control or other) that is to be taken on a regular basis—but only in the quantity prescribed.

The whole family can become a responsible team with specific duties in case of a power failure. If these jobs are discussed or rehearsed beforehand, there will be a feeling of "normalcy" about the situation when it arises.

Telling stories or having games that can be played by candlelight are not only happy diversions for children but keeps them close to you. Above all, don't panic. Telling the children in a shaking voice not to be frightened won't work, but remaining calm yourself will.

SAFE DRIVER PLANS
In most states, motorists with clean driving records for a specified period of time are given substantial discounts in the basic premiums for liability and collision insurance.

NIU Board Approves Building Projects

Action was taken on about $18 million in construction projects for Northern Illinois University at the December meeting of the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities.

The Board:

1. Approved preliminary plans for construction of the biological science and mathematics-psychology buildings. Total cost of the biological science building is $4,739,520 of which $2,702,474 will come from state appropriations. The balance is being sought under Title I of the Educational Facilities Act and from two Federal agencies. Estimated cost of the math-psychology building is $3 million with NIU seeking $600,000 of this in matching funds from the National Science Foundation and the National Institute of Health.

2. Approved final plans for construction of additions to the University Center

President Gets Assist During Speeches

Millions of television viewers are often puzzled when they see what appears to be two transparent music stands flanking the lecturer when President Lyndon B. Johnson delivers a speech.

TV Guide magazine reported in the Jan. 1 issue how these canted panels fulfill a valuable service for the President.

The two stands are actually special prompters that permit the President to talk to the audience in a relaxed, casual manner while sticking precisely to what he wants to say.

"The White House owns four or five sets of the prompters, and one travels with the President wherever he goes. The men required to operate it also travel with the President, one of them in the employ of the prompter's manufacturer," the magazine said. "After each speech, the text is unrolled from the spools, folded, and placed in the President's archives along with a taped version of the remarks."

The twin panes—one on each side of the President—reflect the Chief Executive's speech, which is typed in large capital letters (½ of an inch high) and mounted on rollers at the base of each prompter.

"The principle behind this bit of legerdemain is simple: a powerful light source (a cluster of six 25-watt bayonet-type bulbs) is applied to the moving text in each prompter's base, thereby making it far brighter than anything else in the surrounding area. Thus, the words reflect plainly and in sharp focus on one side of the lightly coated panes," the magazine said.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS 10
THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1966

which will double the building's size. Estimated cost for 165,000 additional square feet including a 16-story tower rising 200 feet above ground level is $5 million.

3. Announced it would seek bids in February for a 1,020-bed West campus dormitory. This action came after the board heard a report approving the financial feasibility of an additional 3,000 spaces in residence hall capacity. This is on the basis of 1,000 more beds each year beginning in 1967. Estimated total cost of the new dormitory would be $5.7 million.

4. Awarded contracts totaling $140,004 for completion of the fourth floor of Graham Hall. The space is for expansion of College of Education facilities.
